

Bridging the Gap: From School to Home

Parent education is more vital than ever in this era of Common Core State Standards. Let ERG help you bridge the instructional gap with their Parent Education Series. Sample topics include:

- Back to School
Do you know how to get your child organized, promote a love of learning, and communicate effectively with the school? This session will help you become a team player with the school in order to help increase student learning!
- Supporting Reading at Home
Do you know simple things to do at home to promote reading? In this session we will discuss how to build vocabulary naturally, how to help your child make meaning while reading, and how to read with your child so you both enjoy it!
- Supporting Math at Home
Times have changed with math instruction! Children are expected to be able to do more at an earlier age. In this session, learn how to make math fun at home and encourage problem solving in an authentic way!
- Writing for Real Reasons
Writing is a critical life-long skill that students will need across their lives. Learn how to make writing purposeful and fun for your children whether they are just starting to hold the pencil or writing for research!
- Working with Non-Fiction at Home
Non-fiction print is all around us! In this session learn the importance of environmental print, helping your child read and think about non-fiction differently, and understanding how to apply text features of informational print.
- Understanding Assessments
Schools and teachers are being held more accountable than ever. What does this look like in your child's classroom? What can you do to be supportive? Learn all about this and get your real assessment questions answered in this session!
